1. The Pan-Europa Movement in Germany covers so far only the area of Greater Berlin. Although this Bund has not received the official approval of the Allied Control Council, nevertheless it has already recruited some 2,000 members.
2. A spokesman of the organization emphasized that the German-Pan-Europa Bund is not just a revival of Count Coudenhove-Kalergi's pre-war movement of the same name. The prime aim of the new German Bund is naturally the formation of a United States of Europe. Differing from Coudenhove-Kalergi's plan, neither the western pattern of federation, as exemplified by the United States of America, nor the eastern example of the Soviets is to serve as a model. In brief, no western or eastern orientation is contemplated.
3. The Bund considers its present duties to be twofold: a.) the diffusion of pre-federation ideology and b.) the preparation of a list of functional proposals to facilitate the successful operation of such a federation. For instance, the Bund has come out strongly in favor of a mutually-beneficial exchange of goods between European countries.
4. At present the Bund is a bona fide member of at least one other federalist movement, namely "Union of Federalists" in Paris. It has, however, no connection with the "Comite International pour la Federation Europeenne" of the same city.
5. The following information was supplied [redacted] on the internal structure of the organization:

2

- a. The Bund is directed by a praesidium composed of a president, a vice-president, a secretary-general, and the heads of the ten committees representing the sub-divisions within the Bund.
- b. The Committee for Organization and Propaganda

6. The Europa-Jugend organization, controlled by the last committee, has 1,000 members. The executive member on the Committee for Youth is Wolfgang Hennig.
7. That the SED is attracted to this organization from the point of view of gaining control thereof is perhaps evidenced by at least one incident. An anonymous member of the SED, who is also a member of the Pan-European, has offered the Bund large sums of money in exchange for a voice in the official affairs of the Bund.
